Webavailability of textbooks in schools in developing countries is associated with student achievement: Students do better on tests when there are textbooks in the classroom (Heyneman et al. (1978), Fuller (1987), Fuller and Clarke (1993). Yet, we know very little about how teachers actually use these textbooks to help students learn. WebTextbooks are undoubtedly the most popular teaching materials used in foreign language classes. Therefore, it is highly significant that textbooks include the essential elements of language and culture and that they correspond to learners' needs, cultural background and level of linguistic proficiency. Accordingly, it is vitally Webuses of textbooks and how use varies among teachers. Based on their analyses of existing data and experimental studies, the World Bank researchers are

This project is supported by the Digital Publishing Institute and West Virginia University Libraries. Webtextbooks are transforming the way students learn to meet the way students live in their daily lives (Weisberg, 2011).

Statement of the Problem

Students in the 21. st. century live in a digital world. Students use electronic devices daily for networking, socializing and staying connected to the world. On average, by the age of five, WebE-textbooks may be a tool with which educators can engage students on multiple levels. However, if students are not willing to be engaged, the only way to change that behavior is to try to learn why the students are not engaged. From ... Webstudents had sobering results, as 53.2% of these students spent more than $300 on textbooks in a semester, and 17.9% spent more than $500(Florida Virtual Campus Survey, 2016).

Additionally, 66.6% of students did not purchase some required textbooks, and 37.6% of students earned a poor grade as a result. This WebThis paper presents a study conducted by librarians at Old Dominion University on student perceptions of textbooks and whether the cost of textbooks plays a role in factors related to student success; and to explore how students at our University engage with course materials. Web of College Stores 2005; Koch 2006). While other estimates of annual expenses on textbooks vary by the year and the type of institution attended (see Figure 2), it is reasonable to conclude that per-student expenditures on textbooks can easily reach $1,000 annually.2 Figure 2. Average amount spent on textbooks by schools surveyed by CALPIRG for Web-textbooks instead of printed textbooks because the “e-book [or e-textbook] is a better delivery method, not a better way to read” (p. 89).
